

SMASH IBM!

We shall enter the realm of scenery at MERDON CASTLE. This stronghold of placeless Capital has been in the hands of 'freemasons' since its purchase by 'IBM' in '1960/61'. Beneath 'Hursley Park' and 'Merdon Castle', 'IBM' works to perfect the architecture of pan-global 'capitalism'. They hope to erect The Golden Stone, an apex, above Merdon Castle (symbolising 'extension') at the moment of 'millennium', whilst attention is focused on the Greenwich meridian.

Long ago, 'IBM' operatives 'penetrated' the underchalk. They found 'Tumble Down Tunnel', a lost way down, and the tunnel from 'Hursley Park' to the old church. As yet the Castle Well/Pole Holes tunnel defeats them. They move beneath the hill, as if authentically. "Within the fosse my white mare, Rigantona sleeps." They seek her there. Earlier, Henry de Blois sought her in "a complex, representing carnal Gnosis (the physical aspect of St Catherine), a kind of healing."

Spectacular sacrifice has been enacted here since Cynewulf, 'king' of 'Wessex', was ritually slaughtered at 'Merdon' in

'IBM' operatives at 'Merdon' Castle ('1785')

'AD' '755', when on a visit to 'his' mistress in her bower. Cynewulf, as 'victim', represents "corporate take-over, the removal of an idea from its object, or Hercules..." 'His' mistress represents "the land, a vehicle (i.e. a horse)." It was here that the slaughter of Ethelwolf's army occurred, in 'AD' '867'.

Mares have always been sacred at Merdon/Hursley: "Smith (English Place-Name Elements) accepts Ekwall's suggestion that there was a lost OE form hyrse ('mare'), which would account for this place name (Hursley)..." Of Merdon, from miere ('mare'), accounting for the 1167 form Merendon(a) from Horses have always been sacrificed at or near Merdon: "During the First World War a 'holding camp' was established [at Ampfield, nearby] for horses on their way to France..." [The New Hampshire Village Book, Hants. Fed. of Women's Institutes, 1990] Horsa and Hengist, in repression, stalk these paddocks.

In recent years rituals have been enacted in Hampshire, involving the maiming of mares. 'The Press' blames the 'Hampshire

The 'HILL OF REPRESSION'

in which Dr Mintern walked with Barny to 'take the place' of 'IBM' in the dream sequence and realise the meta mare

Horse Ripper', implying one deranged man with a knife (we thought it was The Fatman). Dr. Mintern informed us, in the psychic realm, that these actions are carried out by an IBM 'Professional' 'Management' Team based at Hursley/ Merdon. They use mares to represent 'intuition' or 'the mother within us' - a beast of burden (the Proletariat) - which they wish to sacrifice. They enact repression in tunnels underground.

This "hollow of abuse," our meadow - raised up and shimmering - has been in the hands of 'capitalism' too long. We shall call the mare into being! O, speak in hoarse whispers and laugh noisily! Not one horse more! Break the false hills! Free the tethered mare!
